

Crash Pad Information

Last Modified on 02/25/2025 9:54 am MST

A crashpad is an apartment or house generally intended for sleeping between work trips and while on Reserve if you live outside of base. To be clear, the airlines don't have any outside of base. To be clear, the airlines don't have any outside of base. To be clear, the airlines don't have any involvement with this, you do it privately.

There are two main categories for a crash pad:

- Hot Bed: The bed is shared meaning other crew members may sleep in it while you are not there.
- Cold Bed: The bed is all yours and you can leave your sheets on it.

Crashpad Websites

There are many different websites and Facebook groups that advertise crashpads.

- HotelCrashPads.com
- Crashpad411.com
- Crashpads.com
- Crashpadjoe.com
- Blockedinncrashpads.com
- Tripadvisor.com
- Chicagocrashpads.com
- Ordcrashpads.com
- Crashpaddenver.com
- Renedenvercrashpad.com
- Facebook.com/crashpad
- Flight Crew Specials @ McCarran International airport
- Lvcrashpad.com
- Crewmatescrashpads.com
- Talkairline.com
- Phlcrashpad.com
- Phillycrashpad.com

Additional Information - Hotel Crash Pad Network:

The Hotel Crash Pad Network (HotelCrashPads.com) has secured an agreement with the Sonesta Hotel North and Sonesta Hotel South - Atlanta Hartsfield-Jackson International Airport to bring our signature Hotel Crash Pads back to ATL, with a start date of April 1, 2025.
